RICHMOND HILL CO-PASTORAL DIRECTOR

JOB DESCRIPTION

INTRODUCTION

Richmond Hill seeks a full-time residential Co-Pastoral Director to serve a dynamic ecumenical Christian community focused on the restoration and healing of Metropolitan Richmond. Richmond Hill exists to transform metropolitan Richmond through daily prayer, hospitality, racial reconciliation, and spiritual development.

Richmond Hill is dedicated to a co-pastoral model representing its commitment to racial healing and justice. The new Co-Pastoral Director will work in cooperation with and collaboratively alongside the existing Co-Pastoral Director to lead a balanced ministry of prayer and community engagement. The incoming Co-Pastoral Director’s primary responsibilities will focus on outreach to communities, churches, governments, and people of the Metropolitan Richmond region.

Both Co-Pastors are expected to live in Richmond Hill’s racially diverse and inclusive Christian community within an historic monastery in downtown Richmond. Ten to fifteen individuals make up Richmond Hill’s residential community at any given time. Community members maintain the community’s prayer cycle, care for the historic buildings and grounds, offer hospitality to retreat guests and visitors, and provide support to each other for spiritual formation and growth.

Applicants should be ordained in the Christian tradition, sense a calling to residential life, demonstrate a passion for Richmond Hill’s mission, and represent Richmond Hill’s commitment to racial diversity and inclusiveness. Compensation includes room (an on-site apartment) and board, health insurance, pension support, and a modest monthly stipend. More information about Richmond Hill can be found at www.richmondhillva.org.
